

Beskatning af fri telefon og internet bliver afskaffet

Folketinget har vedtaget et nyt lovforslag, der ophæver beskatningen af fri telefon og internet, som medarbejderen får stillet til rådighed af arbejdsgiveren.

Under the current rules, employees who are provided with free telephone and Internet connection by the employer for private use are taxed on a value of DKK 2,800 per year in accordance with ordinary income tax.

The parliamentary bill, adopted on 26 April 2018, repeals the taxation of employer-paid telephone and Internet connection. Tax exemption applies regardless of whether the employee or the employee's household uses the equipment.

The current tax rules will apply until the bill comes into force in 2020.
